IMMUNIZATION PROGRAM GIVEN BOARD'S OKAY

The Gettysburg school board, in regular meeting in the office of Superintendent of Schools Lloyd C. Keefeauver at the high school Monday night voted its approval of the immunization program against diphtheria and tetanus for school children, without financial obligation on the school district. The program was recently approved by the county medical society. It is in effect in several county schools.

Dr. Keefeauver reported that consent of parents is necessary before children may be immunized under the new set-up. Approximately 15 per cent have already been immunized through private arrangements made by their parents, he estimated. The serum is furnished free of charge by the state, he said.

The board voted Monday night to continue the $120,000 of extra fire insurance coverage on the high school, but directed that policies run for three years. The extra insurance was placed last year for a one-year period. Nine local insurance brokers will get the policies.

Name Two To Athletic Council
The fire insurance coverage on the school buildings is now as follows, Dr. Keefeauver said: High school, $343,000; Meade school, $88,000; Lincoln school, $90,000 and High street school, $37,000. Additional insurance policies come due in February and in May, the superintendent reported.

President Paul M. Rohrbaugh announced the appointment of Mahlon P. Hartzell, Sr., and Ray J. Kitzmiller as school board members of the athletic council. The board elected Mr. Hartzell, secretary of the board, as its representative to the Pennsylvania School Directors' association. The annual meeting of both the directors and the secretaries will be held in Harrisburg.

KNICKERBOCKER IS SPEAKER AT LIONS MEETING

"Two-thirds of the people in the United States do not have library facilities," John H. Knickerbocker, college librarian, told members of the Gettysburg Lions club at their weekly dinner meeting at the Shetler house Monday night urging Lion support of the library demonstration bill now before Congress.

Three million persons in Pennsylvania have no libraries, he said, and 3,000,000 more have inadequate library service. He showed movies of a bookmobile in operation in British Columbia.

Five means of raising funds for the Lions club activities were suggested in a report of the activities committee, given by Kenneth P. Hull. The suggestions included a carnival, a minstrel show by members of the club assisted by the high school choir, the sale of tickets on merchandise, the purchase of a baby beef at the Farm Show and its resale, and the holding of another Tom Breneman show.

Sponsor Hospital Room
The minstrel show and the Breneman show received the most support in the sentiments of the club members, but definite action was deferred until the next meeting.

The club voted to complete the furnishing of a room at the Warner hospital, at a cost of $150, and to maintain the room at a cost of approximately $25 every second year. The club will give its entertainment program as usual in the near future at the Hoffman orphanage, but will not have dinner there. Officials of the orphanage notified (Continued on page 5)

FRUIT GROWERS ASK APPLE TAX FOR PROMOTION

Pennsylvania's apple growers will seek once again to have a law passed levying a tax on each bushel of apples for the purpose of advertising and research.

That seemed the goal of the organization judging by talks given Monday afternoon and today at the annual meeting of the State Horticultural Association held at Harrisburg in connection with the State Farm show. Such a bill was turned down by the 1947 State Legislature.

John Peters, Gardner R. D., head of the Adams County Cooperative Fruit Growers Association and one of the county's best known fruitmen, fired the opening salvo in the effort to secure support of the fruit growers in attempting again in 1949 to get the legislature to pass the tax bill. Today "at every conceivable opportunity," according to those interested in the plan, the idea of an apple tax was being driven home to the members.

Four Biglerville High Girls Demonstrate Apple Recipes For Crowds At Farm Show

Four Biglerville high school girls, members of the home economics department at the school, showed Pennsylvania's "typical family" and hundreds of other Pennsylvanians some new tricks in apple recipes Monday at the State Farm show.

John Yohe made candy, from apples; Dawn Logan made apple upside down cake; Jean Bricker made apple muffins and Dolores Kapp showed what delicious sandwiches can be made by using apples as a base and using different dressings.

The "typical farm family," Mr. and Mrs. John L. Reiber, their daughter, Martha Jane, and son, Charles, of New Castle R. 5, were the first of five "typical farm families" to be picked at the farm show.

But, according to news reports from Harrisburg, the farm family, housed in a modern dining room and kitchen as guests of Pennsylvania chain stores, had to "share the lime-light in the new Farm Show feature with four girls from Biglerville, Adams county, high school who prepared and served luncheon for the northwestern Pennsylvania farm family and their guests, including H. C. Fetterolf and Dr. A. Pauline Sanders, of the State Department of Public Instruction."

The Biglerville girls, since the Reibers represented the fruit industry served at luncheon apple juice, baked apples with farm sausage, baked potatoes, apple muffins, cabbage, date and pineapple salad, apple upside down cake and coffee. All of the food used, with the exception of the coffee, dates and pineapple were Pennsylvania grown.

Besides serving the luncheon the girls also made their specialties during the day, passing out samples to the crowds that packed around the center.

While Biglerville high school home economics students had their day at the farm show Monday, Gettysburg high school home economics students and agricultural education pupils were at the farm show today.

Wednesday East Berlin high school will take its pupils, both Future Homemakers and Future Farmers, to Harrisburg.

The East Berlin high school home economics students will present a radio program Wednesday as their contribution to the Farm Show.

This evening Senior Extension club members will take part in square dancing demonstrations.

Three new members were named to the board of deacons: David Deitch, Dale Cluck and Daniel A. Paddock. They also will serve for three-year terms. Retiring deacons were ruled ineligible for re-election.

Miss Elizabeth Evans was re-elected church treasurer for another year.

Foreign mission funds here will go to the support of her work in China. Miss Barnes visited here last spring on a leave of absence and returned to China late in the summer.

The first—but not final—report of the Church Renovating committee, Atty. Donald P. McPherson, Jr., chairman, showed $2,787 collected in cash and an additional $5,464 pledged to the fund to be used in redecorating the church. The campaign has not yet been completed.

Attorney Swope, chairman of the church's Restoration fund committee to raise funds for post-war work overseas, said all but about $800 of the congregation's $5,611 pledge has been paid in. The church raised 123 per cent of its quota.

A 34-year-old Wensville resident, Gerald Taylor, today was announced as Pennsylvania's top tomato grower during the past year.

Taylor is to receive a $25 U. S. Saving bond for his achievement of producing 32.18 tons of tomatoes per acre from his 3.56 acres of land devoted to the crop at the edge of Wensville. That yield, H. H. Hostetter, Sinking Springs, president of the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers, announced is the largest in the state. The announcement was made at the "Ten Ton Growers" session of the vegetable growers held as part of the growers annual meeting at the Farm Show in Harrisburg.

The Adams countian shared honors with Clyde E. Mengle, Sunbury R. 1, who also got a $25 bond, for having 95 per cent U. S. No. 1's on his two acres to win the honors for tops in quality.

Good Soil, Good Management
A farmer all of his life, Taylor has been growing tomatoes for the last eight years, most of the time selling to the C. H. Musselman company. Musselman's got the crop last year.

He credits excellent ground with producing the tremendous yield and points to the fact that he has secured ten tons or more nearly every year. County Agent M. T. Hartman gives much of the credit to good management on Taylor's part.

In addition to the two top men, cash awards of $10 each went to 20 other growers including two more Adams countians. Emory Tuckey, Biglerville, won an award for large yield in the two- to seven-acre class and Harold C. Rice, Gardner, won $10 for large yield in the seven-acres or over class.

GANDHI STARTS FAST FOR PEACE IN INDIA TODAY

By G. MILTON KELLY
New Delhi, India, Jan. 13 (AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi started a life-endangering fast for communal peace in Delhi and India at 11 a.m. (12:30 a.m. Eastern Standard Time) today.

The Indian patriot and prophet of non-violence, frail and 78, rejected last-minute appeals from Hindu, Sikh and Moslem delegations that he give the people 15 days to restore peace before beginning his fast. He received them in the garden of a millionaire friend's home here.

"You must prefer Gandhi or lawlessness. You can't have both," delegation members said he told them in Hindi. They added he asserted life had no value nor attraction without peace and love.

"It Is Time"
Promptly at 11 Gandhi pointed to the remnants of his breakfast of goat's milk and vegetables, from which he had been eating sparingly, and said, "Take it away. It is time."

He timed the start of the fast exactly with his watch. He then rinsed his mouth with water and held a brief prayer service for his assembled friends and others, reading selections from the Mohammedan Koran, the Christian Bible and the Hindu Vedas or religious texts.

He asked the people, including the Hindu, Sikh and Moslem delegations, to leave him then, and he went indoors to follow his normal routine of reading mail, dictating messages to his followers and closely studying current events in newspapers.

Fear Consequences
In undertaking his fast, Gandhi said it "will end when and if I am satisfied that there is a reunion of the hearts of all communities, brought about without any outside pressure, but from an awakened sense of duty."

BULLETS SWAMP F. AND M. 78-53 FOR FIFTH WIN

"Hen" Bream's Gettysburg college courtmen flashed their strongest offense of the season here Monday evening as they swamped Franklin and Marshall 78-53 to gain their fifth triumph in six starts.

The Bullets trailed through eight minutes of the first period before Dick Fidler looped a goal to give the locals a 12-11 lead after which they led by a commanding margin the remainder of the contest.

Pacing the barrage of 28 goals and 22 to free throws was Fidler who accounted for 18 points on a half dozen goals and the same number of charity tosses. George Fair landed 15 points while Ray Nowak, who played an outstanding game, contributed six twin-pointers.

Lead Rockets
After piling up a 20-12 lead at the end of the first period the Bullets hiked their lead to 37-20 at half time.

Midway in the third period the Diplomats rallied mildly on a trio of goals by Denlinger and single shots by Keogh and Begley to cut the Gettysburg lead to 45-33 but the Bullets recovered to hold a 53-39 advantage at the end of the period.

George Fair paced the Breammen in the early minutes of the final round as the Orange and Blue lads sent their lead soaring and in the late minutes of play the reserves took over. Gaylord Fissel netted a trio of goals for the locals in the last three minutes of the contest.

Fresh Win Second
In another free-scoring game the Bullets freshmen hung up their second successive victory by swamping the Diplomats freshmen 79-50. For three periods the victors put up an indifferent exhibition and near the end of the third period the score was deadlocked at 40-40. The yearlings then put on a whirlwind finish, tabbing 35 points in the final 10 minutes to win handily.

Belber, Piechner and Rosborough set the pace for the Bullets while Butler and Spencer each tabbed 13 points for the visitors.

The Bullets varsity will journey to Philadelphia Wednesday to meet the University of Pennsylvania. The next home game for the Breammen will be Saturday, January 24, when Mt. St. Mary's will be the opponent.

Navy Is Shopping For New Grid Coach

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 13 (AP)—The Navy, hoping an injection of outside blood will help give it a winning football team, went shopping today for a civilian coach.

Rear Adm. James L. Holloway, Jr., Academy superintendent, disclosed yesterday the Navy had abandoned the graduate coaching system in effect here for the last 14 years and that Capt. Tom Hamilton, who coached the Middies in 1946 and 1947, had been appointed director of athletics.

Navy's change of course came after two seasons during which it dropped 15 games, tied one and won only two.

Critics blamed the record on the tough schedule and on the system whereby officers were called in for a two or three year tour of duty as head coach and then shipped out again.

Y.S. DRIBBLERS DEFEAT DOVER

Paced by Dale Guise, junior guard, the York Springs high schoolers came from behind in the last three minutes Monday evening to defeat a visiting Dover team 39 to 34 on the winner's floor.

Clyde Kennedy's Latimore lads were trailing 31 to 29 with three minutes to go and then ganged-up on the visiting Northern York league five in whirlwind finish that gave them victory. Guise, backed up by the rest of the team, pushed through three goals, his three for the night, during the rally.

The game, a non-loop affair, was originally scheduled for tonight, but was moved up because of the fair show at Harrisburg to permit attendance at the show today by many members of the two squads.

While the boys were victorious, the York Springs girls found themselves on the losing side, 32 to 18, as a result of a disastrous last half in that game. The two teams were tied 11 to 11 going into the third quarter. Dover then took a lead and walked away from the homesters for the remainder of the game.

Local Miscellany: The office of Government Statistician held by S. S. Neely, Esq., has been abolished. Ex-Clerk of the Courts Bender was elected teller in the Gettysburg National Bank at a meeting of the Board on Tuesday. Mr. Bender will, doubtless, prove an excellent officer.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DR. GEORGE WASHINGTON CARVER

One of the greatest and most beloved and spiritually minded men, ever born into this world, was the late Dr. George Washington Carver, world famous scientist of Tuskegee Institute in Alabama. He was born a slave and once was traded for a race horse. So intense was his education that he did any work to get ahead—as janitor, cook, laundry man—anything.

Dr. Carver's life reads like a miraculous fairy tale. He was born with a love for plants and human beings. He graduated from Simpson college, Iowa, and later took post-graduate work at the Iowa State Agricultural college, but his greatest work in scientific research was done at Tuskegee Institute, where he experimented upon the sweet potato and peanut, creating hundreds of products that have enriched the entire American south, and indeed, the entire world.

Honors were heaped upon this modest and unassuming human being, and such great figures as Henry Ford, Edison, James Wilson, and Henry C. Wallace (father of the former vice president) became his fast friends. A few months before his death Henry Ford constructed in his Greenfield Village a cabin such as the great scientist was supposed to have been born in—and there he was entertained when in Dearborn, Mich., by Mr. Ford.

The outstanding quality in the character of Dr. Carver was his humility and deep religious convictions. He attributed to God all his amazing discoveries. The little room where he did most of his work, he called "God's Little Workshop." He was a lover of flowers and always wore one in his buttonhole. A very interesting biography of this remarkable man was published in 1943, written by Rackham Holt, but I hope many another will also be written, for few men lived such an inspiring life. I have a little booklet in which it is stated that Dr. Carver "talked with flowers."

On January 5th a United States stamp was issued honoring this great American, Dr. Carver—the being the second negro to be so honored, the first being Dr. Booker T. Washington.

In his mind Dr. Carver was always saying to himself, "I want to know." Then this would be followed by its corollary, "I can do that." This was what drove him on, and into his prayer chamber he went to have his dreams translated into realities!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Just Simple Faith."

THE PURPOSE

A wife and children and a home where they can be at ease.

This land of ours is filled with men whose hearts are given to these. They're standing at some lathe or forge or drill or mighty press, Their growing boys to educate, their little girls to dress.

For music lessons, week by week, to teach a child to play;

For all that every father hopes, they work from day to day;

For doctor's care when illness comes; in church the family pew;

'Tis these they spend their strength to have whatever task they do.

They'll tell you in a quiet mood at home beside the fire,

The things that make for peace of mind are all that they require.

They're honest men, and gentle men; God-fearing men and true.

The love of home is strong in them, whatever work they do.

Liquor License Revocations Up

Harrisburg, Jan. 13 (P)—The state liquor control board revoked nearly twice as many liquor licenses in 1947 as it did in the year before while suspensions fell off slightly.

The board announced 84 licenses were revoked last year, 29 of them held by clubs, eight by hotels, 43 by restaurants and the remaining three by wholesale licensees. Only 44 licenses were dropped the year before.

The same 12-month period, the board suspended 811 licenses for varying periods compared with 821 in 1946.

Of the suspensions, 223 licenses were held by clubs, 65 by hotels, 485 by restaurants and 38 by wholesale licensees, principally beer distributors. The suspension periods ranged from five to 90 days with the average being 30 days.

TO ENTER "IKE" IN PA. PRIMARY

Harrisburg, Jan. 13 (P)—The Pennsylvania Draft Eisenhower League opened a two-edge fight today to capture the Keystone state's 73 GOP convention votes for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Disregarding GOP organization plans for uninstructed convention delegates, N. B. Williams, Jr., league chairman, said the five-star general's name will be entered in the April 27 GOP primary and at the same time election of delegates pledged to him will be sought.

"After a county by county check of sentiment, we are convinced that an overwhelming majority of Republican voters in the key state of Pennsylvania want Dwight D. Eisenhower as their candidate for President," Williams said.

Declaring the general's name will be entered in the primary "without his consent or knowledge," Williams said the league wants to give "Pennsylvania Republicans an opportunity to demonstrate this support both to the general himself and to the state and national leadership of their party x x x."

Gov. James H. Duff, who is expected to head the GOP organization delegate slate, has called repeatedly for no action by Republican leaders on candidates until convention time and has refused to discuss the names of any candidates.

U. S. Sen. Edward Martin, Duff's predecessor in the governorship, has been boomed for more than a year as Pennsylvania's "favorite son" candidate for President and is expected to receive Pennsylvania's 73 votes on the first ballot at least at the Republican convention next June.

The property committee was instructed to obtain prices on repairing the ornamental lights in front of the high school on Baltimore street. President Rohrbach brought up the matter by suggesting that the glass in the lights be replaced and Kitzmiller said the lights should be lighted. The underground conduit has burned out or rusted through and it is impossible, without laying new conduit, to use the lights, Keefeauver reported.

New Gym Equipment

The board voted to pay a bill of $12.39 submitted by the Mask and Wig Dramatic club of the high school for new shelving back of the stage. In a letter accompanying the bill, the club said it had been forced to vacate a room it previously used for storage to make room for the office of Paul Whitmoyer, recreational program director.

The board voted to spend $100 for new climbing ropes and ladders for the high school gymnasium, and to get prices for new stands for the high school choir.

Dr. Keefeauver reported that a group of future agriculture teachers from State College visited the high school Monday on a tour of schools.

POINSETTIA MAY BE KEPT UNTIL NEXT CHRISTMAS

Of all Christmas flowers the poinsettia is the most cherished, but unfortunately its beauty under most conditions is rather short lived, writes Alfred Putz in the New York Herald Tribune. If all the good rules are followed, the plants should remain in a presentable condition until the end of January he says. Chilling them by exposure to less than 63 degrees is a frequent cause of their quick decline within a week or so after they have been acquired.

If the temperature is allowed to drop to 60 degrees, yellowing of the lower leaves will take place within a day. Everybody who has had a poinsettia knows what happens after that. The other leaves lose their bright green color in succession and drop off, leaving only the bright red bracts which hold on a little longer.

Quick and decided temperature changes, keeping plants too wet or too dry, or depriving them of sunlight have the same effect. No matter how carefully tended afterward there is no way of undoing the harm.

Easy To Carry Over

Most people discard the plants when they have lost their beauty but, no doubt, there are many gardeners who are interested in carrying them over for another year. That is not difficult, but to have them bloom again at Christmas is another matter because the average home gardener has far less control over growing conditions than the commercial greenhouse man. Yet it is worth a trial even if they should bloom a little later.

Loss of foliage after the blooming season is a natural phenomenon and indicates that the plants are entering their dormant period. Permit the soil to dry off gradually by withholding water. When the red top bracts are ready to fall, put the pots on their sides on the floor of the cellar or basement.

Here they will not need any attention for a period of three months even though the soil may become bone dry. Late in April or early in May the soil is carefully shaken from the roots after the tops have been cut back just above the second or third eye on the stem.

Preparing The Soil

Wash the roots well by gently dipping in a pail of water and re-pot promptly in a mixture of three parts good garden soil, three parts sand and one part well rotted leafmold. A teaspoonful for each two quarts of mixture—may be thoroughly mixed with the composition.

Make sure the drainage hole will function freely by placing over it one or several pieces of broken pot. Some gardeners use a lump of charcoal, about the size of a small walnut, over the crocks to keep the soil sweet.

Water just enough to moisten the soil and place in a sunny window. As new growth develops, increase the soil moisture but never keep fully wet. When balmy nights become the rule, sink the pots up to the rim into the soil of a sheltered, semi-shaded garden spot with free air circulation. Morning and evening sunlight is very beneficial but the hot noonday sun must be avoided.

Here they need but little attention except for watering during dry spells. Once a month give them a little plant food, preferably in liquid form. If the growth is lanky, prune back moderately to obtain stocky, well branched plants.

Just as soon as cool nights threaten, bring them indoors and keep in a sunny window protected against drafts. Pay the closest attention to watering to keep the soil moderately moist at all times. Once a week syringe the leaves with a fine spray of tepid water best taken from a container kept right alongside the plants.

Avoid Drying Out

A good way to prevent the soil from drying out too rapidly is to place them in a larger pot filled with sphagnum moss. If all goes well, the new bracts should show color by the end of November to be in their full glory by Christmas.

TRANSPLANTING SHADE TREES

Most deciduous shade trees may be moved or new trees planted in winter with a minimum of danger. Of course, weather conditions must be considered in order that the ground can be suitably worked. Otherwise all planting and moving work should be completed before roots begin activity in late winter and early spring. Of course, if unusual circumstances delay the task until late March or early April, the chance of survival over the first summer is greatly reduced.

One of the first steps in planting or moving shade trees is complete acquaintance with a few simple but important principles of tree growth and requirements. Perhaps no better preparation for this work can be gained than to obtain and study five instructive publications issued by the Federal government. They are:

- F.B. 1591 — Transplanting Trees and Shrubs.
- F.B. 1726—Treatment and Care of Tree Wounds.
- F.B. 1826 — Care of Trees and Shrubs.
- F.B. 1896 — Care of Damaged Shade Trees.
- F.B. 1967 — Reducing Damage to Trees.

Readers may procure these bulletins without charge by writing their congressman, giving both number and title. Please do not request them from the editor, as he has no free copies for distribution. Of course, he will gladly answer all shade tree questions whenever readers wish to write him.

Rules for moving or transplanting deciduous shade trees may be condensed into 12 sound suggestions.

1. Choose a well formed, vigorous specimen having a healthy top and good roots.
2. Make the transfer while the plant is entirely dormant.
3. Retain as many of the smaller roots as possible and the root mass as nearly unbroken and undisturbed as equipment and means permit.
4. Keep the root mass moist and

Garden Activities For Early February

Evergreens buried under snow should be freed of their load as soon as possible. Even if the branches do not break under the weight of the snow, they often are bent so severely that it requires several years before the good appearance of the plants is restored.

To secure a continuous indoor bloom throughout the winter, start a bowl or two of paper-white narcissus at intervals of about ten days. This is a good time to repair garden tools.

Cold water drawn from the faucet should be allowed to stand several hours before being applied to house plants.

Send for seed and nursery catalogues. It is advisable to place your seed order early.

Start cuttings of begonias in clean sand.

Keep palms on the dry side, as the winter season is their resting period.

When the weather is mild the pruning of grapevines may be undertaken.

This is the time to make plans for next season's planting.

Keep an eye on all tender bulbs that have been stored for the winter. They must be protected from freezing temperatures.

are pruned may be used for cuttings, but they must have an eye each near the base and the top. Place them in a tumbler of water with the base immersed an inch deep. If kept in a bright window but shaded against the hot noonday sun, they soon will root and make leaves. Pot up when well rooted and treat the same as the old plants.

Mid-January Time To Start Caladiums

Mid-January is the proper time to start the tubers of fancy-leaved caladiums. They are gorgeous pot plants, but the best place for them during the summer and fall is right in the garden. Their removal to the open must, however, wait until the nights have lost their chill.

The simplest way of starting them is to place the tubers in shallow trays filled with moist peat moss. Until they begin to grow they need no light, and because they prefer much warmth they may be placed close to the heater in the basement. Whenever the surface of the peat moss begins to dry out, give a good watering but make sure the water is almost lukewarm.

When growth begins, take them up and place them individually in four-inch pots filled with a mixture of equal parts good garden soil, peat moss and sand. Those with colored leaves should have all the sunlight possible, but the white-leaved plants are better protected against the direct rays of the sun.

5. Make the hole deeper and wider than actually needed to accommodate the naturally spread roots.

6. Set the tree at the same depth it formerly grew.

7. Surround the roots with fertile loam, including the extra space suggested in rule No. 5.

8. Tamp the soil over and around the roots and then water thoroughly to settle it into close contact with feeder roots.

9. Prune the top back sufficiently the balance top demands with disturbed, injured and otherwise disrupted roots.

10. Stake the tree firmly from at least three directions to prevent swaying. This is very important with taller trees.

11. Keep the tree amply and consistently supplied with moisture until it is vigorously established in its new home.

12. Guard it from injury by insects, especially those which attack the foliage, as success in growth depends almost entirely on development of a heavy crop of leaves. This, in fact, is the major aim of every step in handling the tree in its transfer.

The editor urges readers to write him during the winter to solve all their shade tree problems before spring arrives and time for many remedial measures passes.

PREDICTS MEAT RATIONING SOON

Harrisburg, Jan. 13 (P) — U. S. Agriculture Secretary Anderson forecasts a reinstatement of rationing by popular demand by April or May of this year.

"I predict that the people will demand rationing, at least of meat by April, or certainly by May," Anderson told a reporter at a meeting of Pennsylvania farmers last night where he was a guest speaker.

Anderson, earlier yesterday, asked Congress for power to clamp wholesale price ceilings on meat.

The secretary told the farmers that demands on American agriculture under the Marshall plan will continue "at very high levels," and called for "top production" to meet these demands.

At the same time, he asserted that "improvements in soil will support neither good eating nor good business," and asked for public backing of President Truman's recommendation to Congress that soil conservation subsidies to farmers be increased to wartime levels.

46 SURVIVORS OF BLAZING SHIP SAVED FROM SEA

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—All 46 survivors who abandoned the Army's flame-swept funeral transport Joseph V. Connolly were safe today aboard two other vessels after a dramatic rescue from lifeboats in which they had tossed for 11 hours in raging North Atlantic seas.

Rescue of the 46—the Connolly's 45 crewmen and its lone passenger—was completed last night after an all-day air and sea search for the survivors who abandoned their blazing ship in a northeast gale some 900 miles east of New York.

The half-frozen men were picked up by the Army transport Gen. R. E. Callan and the Black Diamond line's Union Victory, which sped to the scene after intercepting the stricken Connolly's calls for help earlier in the day. Long-range air force planes from Kindley Field in Bermuda aided in the rescue.

Salvage Attempt

The two ships reported all hands safely aboard with "minor burns and injuries among survivors."

The Gen. Callan, still standing by the Connolly late last night, messaged that the distressed vessel was ablaze "from stem to stern with constant eruptions from 40 to 50 feet."

An Army sea-going tug left New York harbor yesterday morning to attempt salvage operations but the Callan's master radioed that the tug would "not be able to come within one-half mile of the flaming derelict."

Cause Not Known

Cause of the fire, which originated in the Connolly's engine-room, had not been determined, the Callan said.

The New York Port of Embarkation said 27 of the men, including three injured, were taken aboard the Union Victory which was en route to Rotterdam when it answered the Connolly's S.O.S. The Union Victory was directed to proceed to Halifax.

FRUIT GROWERS

definite promotion program for our industry," Peters told the growers Monday afternoon. "We cannot have an apple tax law before 1949. This society can continue its effort however. It can maintain an active committee to support a new bill in the 1949 legislature. To do this it must use all the experience of last year's committee. It should establish active contracts in every county which has a key man in the legislature. And, it must get those key men keyed up so that they will understand what we are talking about and actively support this proposal. There is no time to lose."

Peters outlined the history of last year's attempt to have an apple tax law passed. The proposal put to the state legislature a year ago by the state fruit growers was that a tax of one cent per bushel be placed on all apples grown for sale in Pennsylvania and that the legislature should set up a board of seven Pennsylvania apple growers, to serve without pay, to administer the law.

Nova Scotia, where the survivors were to be transferred to the transport General Heintzelman, due January 16.

The 442-foot Connolly left here last Thursday en route to Antwerp with 6,445 empty caskets to return additional bodies of American war dead from Europe. She had arrived here last October with 6,248 war dead, first such shipment since the end of the war.

and utilize the fund for advertising and research.

The state horticultural society and many county organizations in the state backed the proposal. "A great many individual growers support the plan. In fact one might almost count the growers who oppose it on one's fingers," Peters declared. The Pennsylvania Council of Farm Organizations endorsed the plan and the Apple Processors favor it. The Pennsylvania Department of Revenue gave its valuable aid in preparing the bill and Secretary of Agriculture Miles Horst and his staff acted as true friends in helping us iron out the kinks in the bill.

"Our own George Goodling introduced the bill in the House and it passed without a dissenting vote. It went to the Senate and there was a fight. We didn't have a George Goodling in the Senate."

"We must note here a few things. The proposal is not of a controversial nature, neither is it a political issue. It failed in the Senate not because of active opposition, but because senators did not actively support it. There is not a single apple man in the Senate."

To Help Sales

"It is true a few newspapers opposed it. One opposed it because it would raise the cost of living for apple consumers. This of course is just plain ignorance. We want to get better distribution, to get more people to eat apples—not higher prices to further restrict apple consumption."

"A year ago as apple growers you were convinced of the need of an apple tax and promotion law in Pennsylvania. Since 1920 you saw the apple tree population drop by 40,000,000 trees and production fall from an average of 168,000,000 bushels to 115,000,000 bushels. You have seen citrus fruit in the same period encroach on your market from 55,000,000 up to 180,000,000 boxes this year. You have seen foods generally spend more money in advertising for the consumer dollar than any other industry. Washington, Michigan, Virginia and now Maryland and West Virginia have state apple laws which will make our position the more difficult.

Need Cooperation

"With our voluntary system in Appalachian apples in which our average contribution is 1 1/10 of one cent on our production we have accomplished a great deal. But to the grower who thinks he can keep that one cent tax and 'go it alone' you saw every food store this fall with its windows full of citrus. Fifty bushels of citrus to 1 bushel of apples. How were you making out selling those stores? You saw cut the price of apples 25%. Did that help you to sell or did the consumer know it? You couldn't advertise that price cut as an individual grower. You saw 'Our Eastern apples have better flavor' but those high priced apples in our stores came from the Pacific coast. Did you ever try to sell Washington apples in Seattle, Tacoma or Spokane? They are selling theirs in Allentown, Reading, Chambersburg, Biglerville and York. And right now Washington is spending $250,000 on a drive beginning Wednesday of this week to sell more of their apples than ever before in our markets."

"Some folks say quality will sell apples. We must grow and pack good apples and they will sell. As if that is all that is needed. A state like Pennsylvania that stands fourth in national production! Where a society such as this has studied apples for 89 years! Where a state college and extension service such as ours has constantly aided our growers, there we certainly cannot say we have nothing to advertise."

"During each of the six years preceding price control the U. S. Government bought apples somewhere in the U. S. as a distress program. Such Government buying is an emergency proposition and can never solve the problem. Grower tax funds developing a long range apple promotion program is a definite effort of growers to solve their own problem. The public, the government, the consumer should all welcome such an effort on the part of apple growers."

SSS Tonic

Do you feel bloated and miserable after every meal, taste sour, bitter food? If so, here is how you may get blessed relief from this nervous distress.

Everytime food enters the stomach, a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with over-doses of soda and other alkalis to counteract gas and bloating when what you so clearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

If you burn oil...

Set your thermostat no higher than 70 in the daytime

Turn your thermostat no higher than 60 at bedtime

The supply of furnace oil in storage tanks is critically low.

The oil industry is refining more than ever before and installing new refining equipment as fast as possible. And spending extra money to get more furnace oil out of a barrel of crude than ever before.

And we're having more winter this season than last.

If everyone who heats with oil starts to conserve now, there should be enough to go around.

To help make sure you'll have heat the rest of this winter (and, incidentally, save on fuel costs), set your thermostat no higher than 70 in the daytime. Then turn it no higher than 60 at bedtime.

Below are listed a lot of simple, commonsense ways to conserve furnace oil. To conserve oil for February and March, daily consumption must be reduced now by everyone.

The Atlantic Refining Company

Suggestions for saving furnace oil

1. Set your thermostat no higher than 70 during the day.
2. Set your thermostat no higher than 60 at night or while you're away from home.
3. Close off rooms that you are not using.
4. Shut outside doors quickly when you come in or go out.
5. Close bedroom doors at night. Pull down the shades on all windows at night. Toss a rug against the crack under the bedroom door and against outside doors at night.
6. Be sure to close all fireplace dampers.
7. Make sure your heating system is working right.
8. Put up storm windows and insulate your house now if you possibly can (they cut fuel bill as well as save oil).
